LL.M. (Human Rights Law Group)

Semester-II (Effect from 2021-2022)

Programme Outcome (PO) For LL.M.( Human Rights Law Group) Programme	LLM in Human Rights Law at Sardar Patel University is a Two-year post graduation programme that is designed for those, who interested in learning about the fundamental rights and Duties of every human being and gain knowledge about the various laws and rights that every individual possesses. A greater awareness of human rights, not only as negative restrictions on the state but as positive obligations for creating an environment in which man could live with dignity was necessary. Today our modern world relies on this fundamental perception to save itself from injustice. Human rights are universal and demand compassion and respect for others. They cannot be taken from a person. Today the United Nations and their Charter are defining the international law, which protects the fundamental freedoms. The rules they follow, create a complex system of organizations, which can keep you safe in case of unfairness or discrimination. Protection of Human Rights (HR) became an important issue after the second world war and after the acceptance of Universal Declaration of Human Rights. The growth of HR Law and jurisprudence thereafter was spontaneous and continuous. The changes in the global scenario bring new concept of HR protection against violation. In one sense, HR can be said as the rights which the nature has endowed with human beings. However, they are not mere privileges given to the subjects by the ruler but are liberties permitted to the citizens in a democracy. Manifestly a law that violates human rights is no law at all. Probably this perspective may give an impression that human rights are not different from natural rights envisaged by the natural law school.
