Q.2.B Read the following paragraph carefully and answer the questions (15) given below.

Socrates, the great Greek philosopher, tried hard to control himself and was resolved never to make a show of his temper. He believed that an angry man was more of a beast than a human-being. He had a wife who used to lose her temper on the slightest excuse and tried her utmost to irritate the cool and calm philosopher. One day the woman became more furious than ever and began to insult Socrates. Socrates determined not to be put out and to leave her alone went and sat on the door-step of his house, looking out on the public street. The wife, finding that Socrates was not paying the least heed to her loud and angry scolding, went up to him and emptied a pot full of water over him. The passers-by in the street were much amused at the incident, and Socrates joined with them in their laughter, and quietly remarked, "I was expecting this; after thunder comes the rain".

Questions:

1. What did Socrates think of an angry man?
2. What type of wife had Socrates?
3. What did she do to make him angry?
4. Why did she empty the pot full of water over her husband?
5. What was the remark of Socrates?
